RULES FOR PLACING FUND OF CROP MONEY

SECRETARY McADOO ANNOUNCES REGULATIONS TO GOVERN THE APPORTIONMENT OF THIRTY
FOUR MILLIONS FOR CROPS.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Regulations governing the apportionment of the $34,000,000 crop money to be placed with banks throughout the country by the federal treasury, have been announced by Secretary McAdoo. In apportioning funds among the banks in each city consideration is to be given to the character of business done by the applicant bank and the extent to which it is lending money to its country correspondents. Particular consideration is to be given to the willingness of these banks to loan the country banks at reasonable interest rates, the secretary says, the government's chief interest being to handle the fund in such way as will enable the ultimate borrower to have advantage of low interest.

Collateral security accepted for the deposits includes United States government bonds of any issue, high-class state, municipal or other bonds which have been approved by the secretary, and when so approved will be accepted at three-fourths of their face value. In every case the paper must bear the endorsement of the bank offering it. The rules provide:

"Commercial Paper" Defined.

"The term commercial paper is here used in its general, not technical, sense, and may consist of first-class business paper, executed by individuals, firms or corporations of good standing and responsibility for legitimate business purposes, and not for speculative transactions. It should, preferably, bear the names of two persons, firms or corporations in addition to the indorsement of the bank submitting it, though the secretary may name single-name paper if indorsed by the bank, if standing of the maker is regarded as sufficient. No commercial or business paper will be approved by the secretary until it has been unanimously approved and recommended by a committee appointed for that purpose, to consist of six members, five of whom shall be selected by and be members of the clearing house association of the city in which the bank applying for the deposit is located, the sixth to be designated by the secretary."

Cities to receive allotments of the federal deposits are to be designated by the secretary. Applicant banks will be required to submit the list of their securities to the security committee (six members.) When the list is approved by the committee, three copies of it are to be sent to the secretary of the treasury duly approved, together with a copy of the resolution adopted by the board of directors making the application, authorizing request for the deposit, and pledging the securities in question. If the secretary approves the securities, one list will be returned to the custodian designated to receive such securities with the secretary's approval. One retained by the custodian, another delivered to the applying bank, and the fourth retained by the security committee. Deposits of the funds will in all cases, except where in the judgment of the secretary special conditions are justified, be made in installments of 25 to 50 per cent of the total allotted to the given district.

Deposits Payable on Demand.

All deposits will be payable to the treasury on demand, without previous notice, but in order to afford the relief intended, and to facilitate the movement and marketing of crops it is expected, save in special cases to be determined by the secretary, 25 per cent of the total deposit will be withdrawn by the government on Dec. 1, 1914, and 25 per cent on Jan. 1, 1915, Feb. 1 and Feb. 15. Banks may return the deposits to the government at an earlier date if they so desire, and the secretary reserves the right to call for additional securities, as he may deem necessary.

Depository banks will be required to pay the government 2 per cent on the average balance, maintained during the period of deposit, and, in addition, must pay such expense as is incident thereto.

The secretary will only make deposits in national banks located in such of the principal cities or towns as he may designate. No statement will be made as to the amount allotted to states or to particular money centers. It is known, however, that Texas will receive an aggregate of $2,400,000.

Rev. J. M. Martin of Denver is conducting a revival meeting in a large tent at 6th avenue and G street, northeast, and is attracting large crowds nightly. Rev. Martin is organizing a large chorus for the meetings, and invites any singers of the city to join.

Services are conducted every day—at 10 a. m. and 8:15 p. m.

SIMPLE RITES AT INTERMENT

minutes later the casket, covered with gray broadcloth and surmounted by a single wreath of flowers, was lifted from the funeral car by eight of Mrs. Wilson's cousins and borne to the hearse. As the train steamed into the station, church bells throughout the city were tolled. A wide space had been cleared about the station and the thousands of people stood back respectfully. Those who bore the casket were Edward T. Brown, Atlanta; Robert M. Hoyt, Wade C. Hoyt, and Nathan Hoyt, Rome; R. P. Axson, Savannah; Randolph Axson and Edward T. Brown Jr., and Frank C. Gebreath, Atlanta.

Services in Little Church.

The president, followed by Secretary and Mrs. McAdoo, Mr. and Mrs. Sayre, Miss Wilson, Professor Axson and other near relatives and members of the party quickly left the train and entered their carriages. The procession then moved through black-draped streets to the First Presbyterian church. More than eight hundred relatives and friends of the Wilson and Axson families were already gathered in the quaint little church which Mrs. Wilson used to attend when her father, Rev. Edward S. Axson, was pastor there.

The church was draped in black with intertwined wreaths of white flowers. On one wall was a white marble tablet to the memory of Mrs. Wilson's father. Banks of flowers were piled high about the catafalque upon which the casket was placed.

As the president entered, following the casket, Chopin's funeral march was played softly upon the organ. A simple, short service was conducted by the Rev. G. G. Sydney, the local pastor. The president, his daughters, Secretary McAdoo and Mr. Sayre, occupied the front pew in the center and back of them were other members of the family, Dr. Grayson and Secretary Tumulty. Two old-fashioned hymns, girlhood favorites of Mrs. Wilson, were sung by the choir. Rev. Dr. Sydney then read briefly from the scriptures and spoke of the beauty and charity of Mrs. Wilson's life.

Rain Fell in Torrents.

As soon as the church service was ended the casket was carried to the waiting hearse and the short journey to Myrtle Hill cemetery was begun. School girls dressed in white and holding aloft laurel branches stood in line along either side of the streets through which the procession passed. Behind them were thousands of people with bowed heads, silent and sorrowful. The entire city was draped in funeral black. The cortege was close to the cemetery when rain began to fall. The storm rapidly grew worse, the downpour soon becoming torrential. A tent erected over the grave gave partial shelter to the family group but the thousands of people who came to witness the burial were without protection.

Services at the grave, which is beside those of her father and mother, were brief and marked by impressive simplicity. The president stood with head bowed as the final rites were performed. As he stood there with his daughters, Mr. Wilson made no attempt to conceal his grief. As the hushed voice of the preacher read the burial service, the president's form was visibly shaken by his strong emotion and the tears streamed unchecked down his cheeks. Others of the party wept silently.

After the casket was lowered and the grave filled, vast heaps of flowers, the tribute of the nation, were piled high over the tomb.

On the way to the cemetery the procession passed the house where Mrs. Wilson lived as a girl and another spot above the banks of the Etowah river where tradition has it that she promised to become the future president's bride. Nearby was a statue to the women of the south, the inscription of which was written by the president a few years ago. On every side were scenes which recalled vividly to him the days of his young manhood and sweet memories of her who now lies in a grave in her old home.

Within less than four hours from the hour the funeral train arrived the president and his party were once more on board their special cars, and the return journey was begun.

CHUM BOB'S SPORTING TALK.

New York, Aug. 12.—Commodore James A. Pugh, who took his newest speed boat, the Disturber IV, to England to take part in the international races at Cowes, England, is a sorely disappointed man. The races were scheduled for today, and the commodore expected to see his boat match some of the finest motor craft in the world. The competitors he most seriously desired in the races have been withdrawn.

Western papers are picking Jack Knight of the Cleveland A. A. team as being one of the players likely to go to the majors from the American Association. Knight has been on the payroll of four major league clubs, but of course that does not bar him from further trial.

It is interesting to note what the sporting world can do for the war in Europe. Jean Guin, the great runner, is a lieutenant in the French infantry. Emilio Lough, the former holder of the world's half-mile record, is eligible for service in the Italian cavalry, and Hannes Braun, the great half-miler, will be on one of the German dreadnoughts.

Freddie Welsh says that he lives almost exclusively on carrots before meeting Willie Ritchie. Well, if a guy eats a cluster of carrots he ought to be sore enough at the world to beat up three or four people.

Some chatty young men have broken into the National league this season, but none can approach the flow of small talk which is spilled by Mollwitz, of the Reds, when he is in the field. He has O'Mara, of the Brooklyn, beaten. He is wound up and never runs down.

The Philadelphia cricket team has sent a team of players to England for matches. Perhaps it is just as well that they seem likely to come to grief. One wonders what we'd say

Speaking of luxurious golf links, what's the matter with the course at Shinnecock Hills, L. I.? Nearly a million dollars in all have been spent on the Shinnecock links, much of which was subscribed by wealthy men in and about New York City. The course is now ranked among the greatest in the world.
